Homework Policy

Homework is a tool to strengthen your child's education while promoting responsibility. Providing your child with the time and place for completing assignments is a strong way to show your support for his/her learning.

It is important that your child keep track of his/her homework in their agenda. It is also important that you review the homework each night with your child and sign their agenda to show that you approve of the work they have completed.

Homework for math is given Monday - Friday. Additional assignments for the other academic subjects are given periodically. Also, daily reading of 30 minutes is required as part of homework. I try keep the amount of homework at a minimum..

If students do not complete their homework, then it is expected that they will complete it at home the following night, unless the family would prefer that their child complete it during recess. Note, however, that the teacher will not be checking again the following day.
